CHAPTER I
INTRODUCTION

This chapter presents the introduction of this thesis. The introduction consists of the research background, research questions, research objectives, scope of the research, research benefits and definition of terms.

1.1 Research Background

Everyone has some perspective in expressing or form a narrative story on their life, one way of them is literature. Literature is a term used to describe written and sometimes spoken material. Derived from the Latin litteratura meaning "writing formed with letters," literature most commonly refers to works of the creative imagination, including poetry, drama, fiction, nonfiction, journalism, and in some instances, song" (Lombardi, 2015).

Atas says that "Literature, which intertwines within such fields as history, philosophy, sociology, psychology and so on, is a discipline wherein language is used as a medium of expression so as to interpret man, existence and culture"(2015). In other words, literature has a complexity to describe human on their humanity in almost all aspects including psychology.

Through literature, especially in the novel character, we will find so many human behavior that represent the psychological aspect that sometimes very influence the reader, such as personality problems, self identity, self critic and disorder.
